AVD Blowout! Gusher sees High Demand for its AVD Series Pumps

Gusher recently completed this order of custom AVD pumps for KARCHER, a German parts washer manufacturer. They are utilizing our pumps in the Portland, Oregon area automotive aftermarket industry. These feature a specially engineered locking collar (see customer request sketch on right) for extra stabilization of the discharge pipe. Another feature is a non-weeping impeller design, eliminating moisture spray above the mounting plate, which allows for easier pump pulling.

Along with the KARCHER order Gusher also manufactured and shipped a large order of stainless steel, no-seal-required, above plate discharge pumps for General Motors for use in their automotive paint process.

...and the Middle East

The Nagle authorized repair center for has just opened a new facility in Dubai. Bill Hein was there for the Grand Opening and conducted a pump class for Hydro-Middle East as well as attendees from the Water Desalination Authority, and several people from Saudi Electric. To date Nagle has several hundred pump units now in service at Saudi Electric and hope to supply a good number of pumps into the water treatment areas all over Arabia.

Hydro Middle East will be not only a Nagle authorized repair center but will also take on the responsibility of new unit sales.

Brand New, along with Tried and True.....

This shot of the traditional Gusher coolant pumps, with technology from the 1950's, ready to ship out with our most most up to date engineered AVD pumps illustrates Gusher's ability to constantly re-invent for today's market as well as to continue the success of the the tried and true original designs that are still relevant today...That's real staying power.

In his travels, Scott Thurrott took some interesting photos of this Classic Deming Turbine Pump at an Old Movie Theatre in Hampton, SC.
